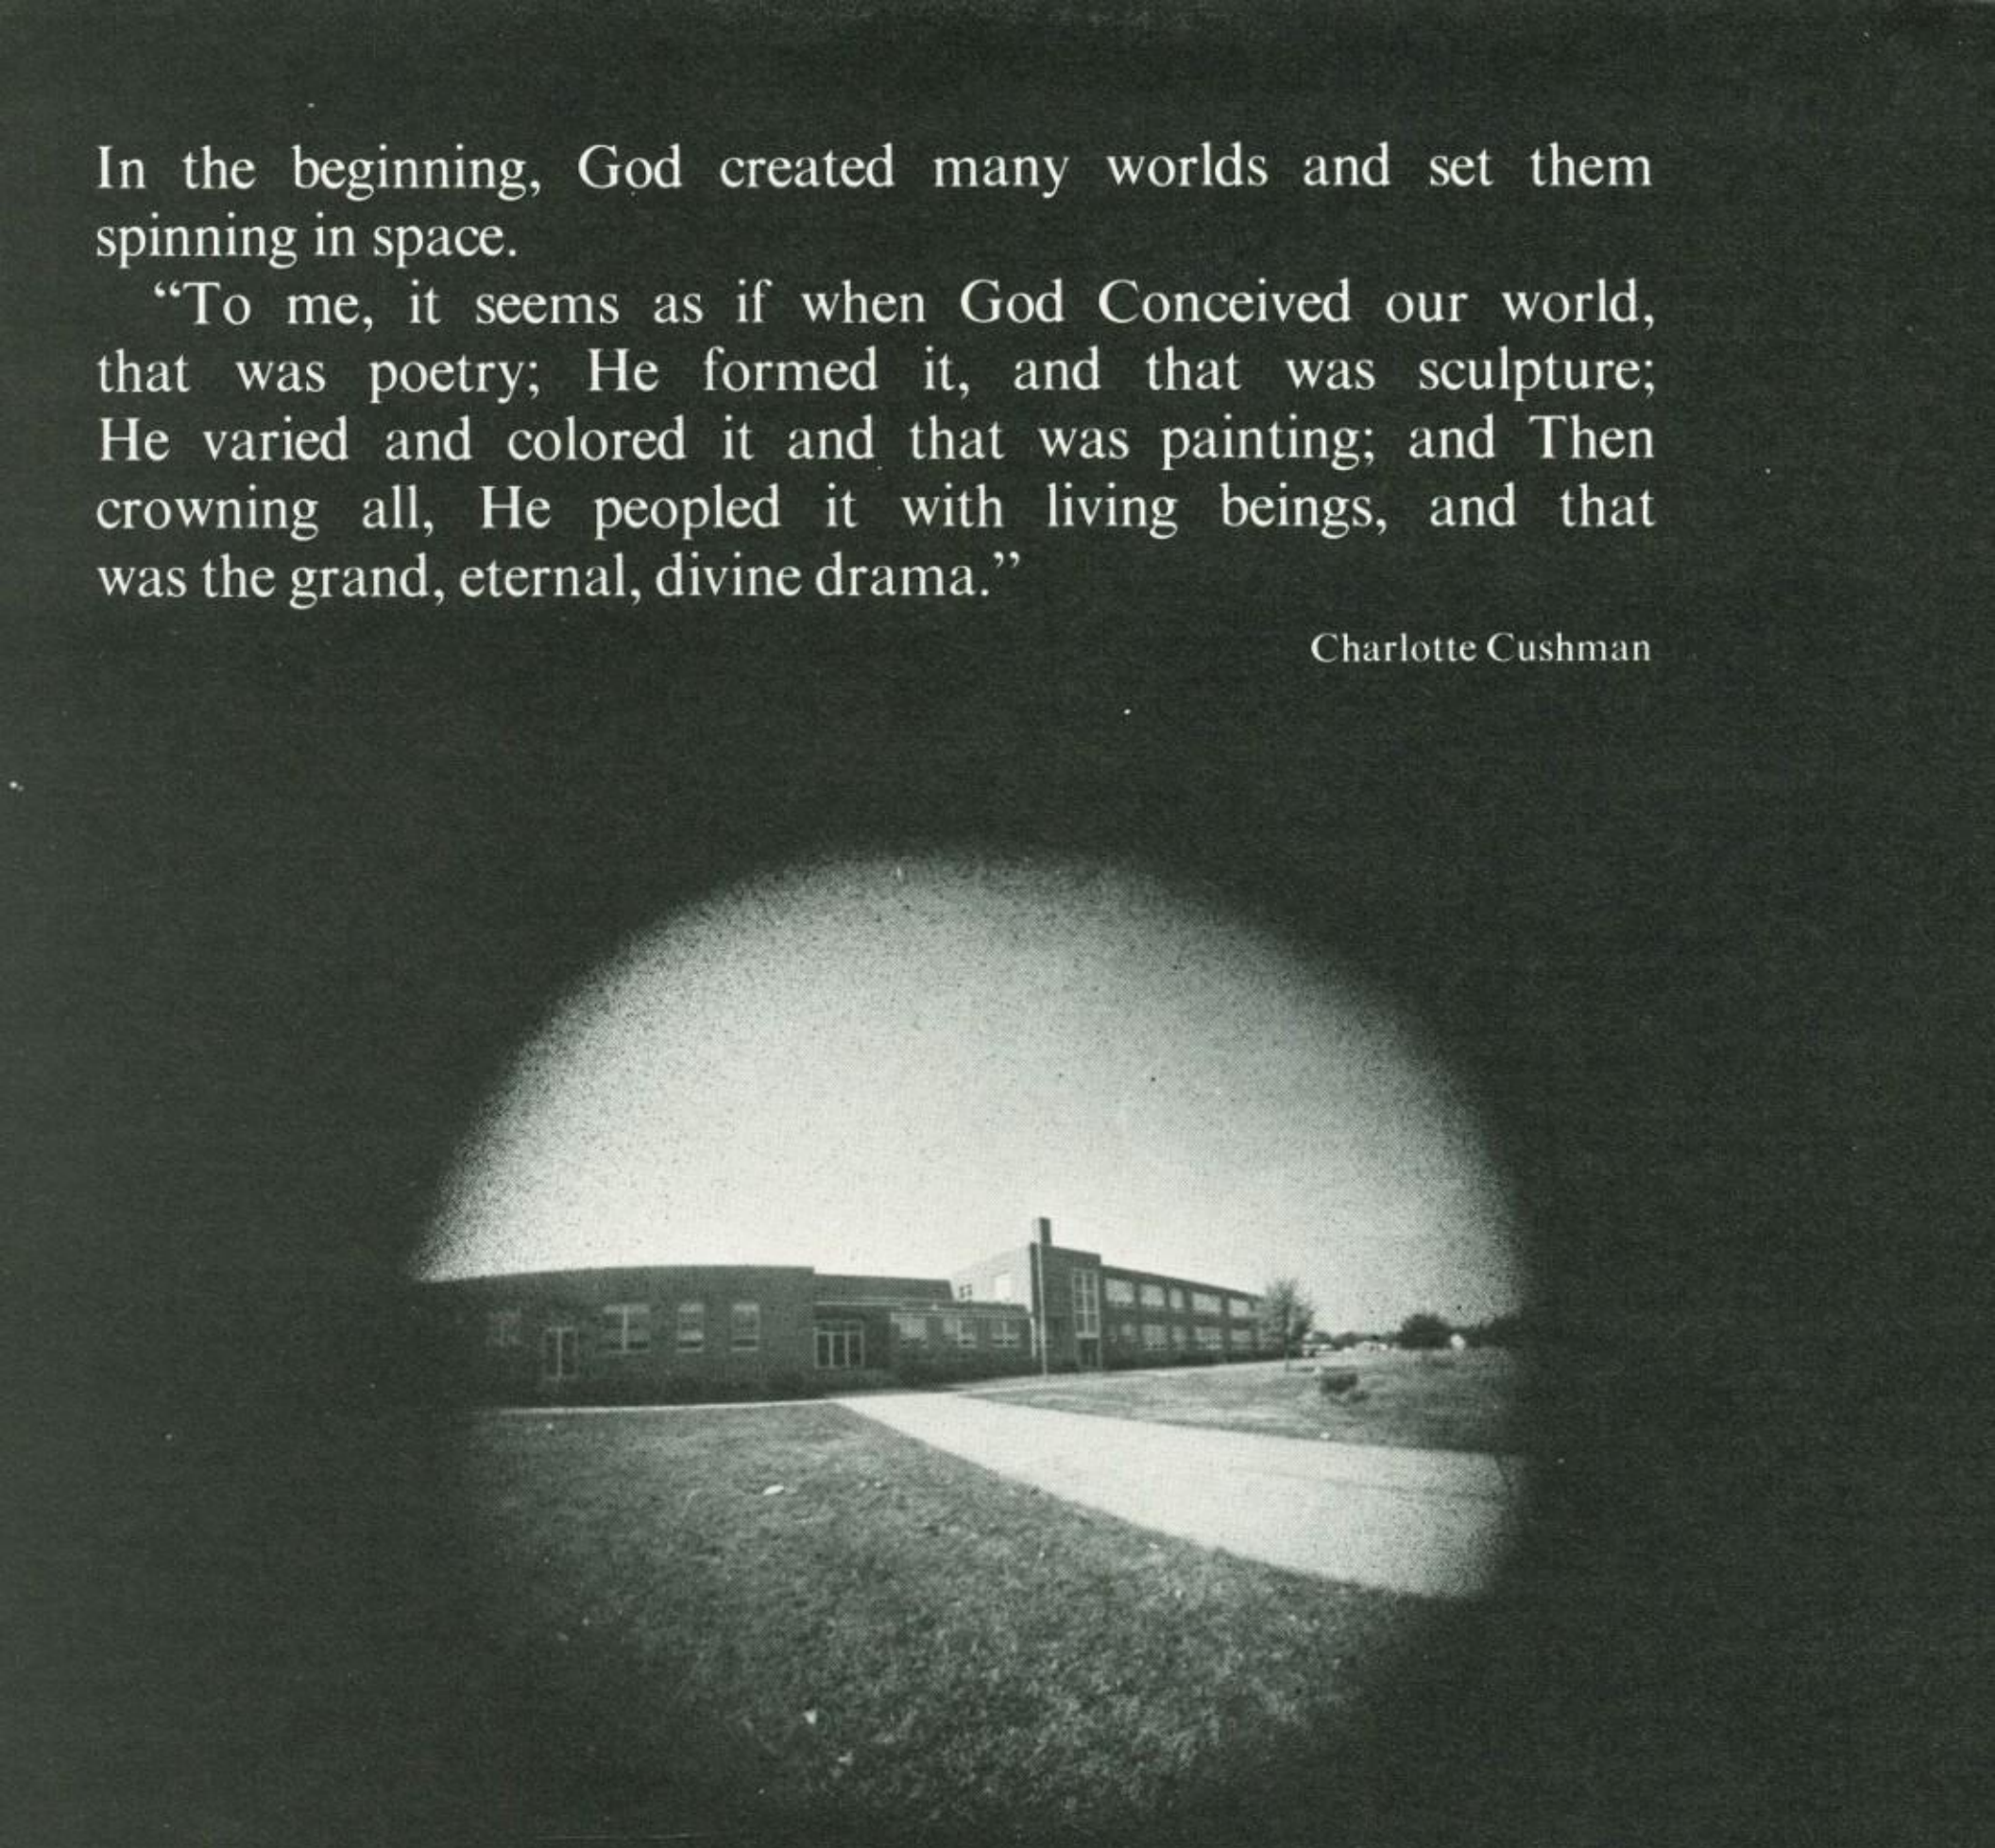
In the beginning, God created many worlds and set them spinning in space.

"To me, it seems as if when God Conceived our world, that was poetry; He formed it, and that was sculpture; He varied and colored it and that was painting; and Then crowning all, He peopled it with living beings, and that was the grand, eternal, divine drama."

Charlotte Cushman



We, the Annual Staff of Greensville County High School will attempt to focus in on the good times, the work, the "Happenings" on our small world, a part of the whole, a piece of the puzzle that goes into the Grand Design.

Art class provides one outlet on the road to creativity. National studies have shown that a high correlation exists between creativity in the arts and creativity in the sciences.

Involves Adventurous Thinking, typed, Regimented Performances, mold.

"The truly creative—whether in art, in science, or in philosophy—is always and precisely that which cannot be taught. And yet, though it seems paradoxical, creativity cannot spring from the untaught. Creativity is the imaginatively gifted recombination of known elements into something new." (John Ciardi)
"Creativity, originality and inventiveness are the prime requisites for the crucial task of training the mind." (Harold F. Harding)

Forensic Club Fosters Drama

"Giddi up, Sugar Biscuit, hold on Fairy Princess, I will saveth thee!" and so the chase was on, accompanied in background music by the chirpings of the Forensics Club Choir.

For the first time in many years the gymnasium echoed with applause from the students as they witnessed a comeback in dramatics, presented by the Forensics Club or "Forensic Follies." Students in forensics discovered their creative abilities and potential that had been dormant for the past several years.

Inspired by their slogan, "We've only just begun," students launched into activities that had not been attempted in several years. The club members participated in activities such as a Forensic Meet in which each member entered into one of the three categories of speech, poetry, and prose. Each individual put forth an effort to do their best in their area of competition. The winners went on to district competition.

Have you ever seen a play with professional actors? Well the members of the Forensics Club have. They went to see the production My Fair Lady at Swift Creek Mill Play house in January and the members received a vision as to what the world of drama involves.

Four students, T. Teel, P. Rasnake, H. Wyche, and B. Ingram traveled to Tennessee for the All Honors Band. In a Contest of Concert Music held in Richmond, the G.C.H.S. Band made a superior rating in Grade V. For pleasure, as well as practice, Mr. Cribbs held a Band Workshop at Chowan College for one week during the summer. With the opening of school, the parade circuit began. The Marching Eagles were host band at the Peanut Festival in Emporia. They took a 2nd place at the South Hill Harvest Festival, 1st place at the Weldon, N. C. Homecoming Parade. The crowning "laurel" was the 3rd Place Band and Band Front award in Division I of the Tobacco Festival Parade in Richmond where they were the Grand Marshal Band. Carrying away 1st place honors at the Lawrenceville Christmas Parade, the band went to participate in Roanoke Rapids and Emporia parades. They also attended Band Day at the University of Richmond. T. Teel, A. Barnes, T. Jefferson, B. Lee, M. Collins won chairs in the Symphonic All Regional District III Tryouts at Colonial Heights High School while L. Lifsey, and J. Crichton won chairs in the Concert Band. Five students attended the Shenendoah Conservatory of Music Clinic in Winchester. If you Have horn and want to travel, join the band.

Homecoming Boosts School Spirit

HOMECOMING "75"

The spirit of Homecoming
Was in the hearts of all
It rattled from the many posters
That were put on the wall.

The G.A.A. sold spirit links
The Pep Squad sold footballs
The Cheerleaders went as far
As to sell cake in the halls.

A bonfire was held
On that Thursday night
Everyone yelled and cheered
Around the fire's light.

Then Friday came and everything
Was all green and gold
You could really say that our school
Was full of spirit and soul.

There were skits at the Pep Rally
Everyone was ready to cheer.
For Friday, October 18
Was the best day of the year.

The Homecoming Court was the prettiest sight
That I have ever seen
From the start of their search
To the Crowning of Denise Thomas, our queen.

After all the attendants and queen left.
The band began to prance
Then everyone was excited and waited
For the Homecoming dance.

The team returned to the field
To obtain the victory for the night
Not one of the fans could doubt
The Eagles had won that fight.

SCA Sets Goals

The goal of S.C.A. this year has been to capture more spirit, enthusiasm, and interest at Greensville County High School. The S.C.A. organized the concession stand during football season, sponsored Homecoming, and gathered items for Christmas baskets to the needy. The student body participated in a "Green and Gold" day formed by the S.C.A. representatives and officers. The S.C.A. also sponsored the March of Dimes, Heart and Tuberculosis fund drives. The Student Cooperative Association plans to end the 1974-75 year by attending the annual S.C.A. Spring Conference and participating in the Summer Workshop in Bridgwater, Virginia.

Beta Club And Math And Science Club Recognize And Encourage Scholarship

BETA CLUB

The National Beta Club is a leadership-achievement-service organization for high school students. Its purpose is the promotion of honesty, service and leadership. Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors with a 3.0 average or better are invited to join. The club sponsors a Christmas social during which the school's Christmas tree is decorated. Members attend the State Convention in March. The club also participates in many money-raising projects.

BETA CLUB OFFICERS AND SPONSORS—Mrs. Jones, Carolyn Doyle—President, Tanyer Clark—Vice President, Serenna Russell—Secretary, Roger Jefferson—Treasurer, Mr. Black.

MATH AND SCIENCE CLUB

The Science and Math club is composed of students whose main interest is in a Science or Math field. The meetings are both enjoyable and educational with many of the programs consisting of science or math projects that the students themselves have designed. The club participates in activities such as the science and math conference held at St. Paul's College. The club also sponsored a trip to the planetarium of Thomas Dale High School. The Math and Science club has an interest for just about anyone.

Foreign Language Club Fosters Cultural Enrichment

Following the national trend, interest in Foreign Languages has decreased over the years.

The French and Spanish classes comprise the Foreign Language Club. Though Russian is no longer offered in the school curriculum, the past Russian students are included in the club.

During a regular meeting, the members entertain with the recitation of a poem, the singing of a song, or a skit read or presented in the language of their choice.

Attending the Foreign Language Banquet in December gave the members of the club an event to remember. "Chef" Hill brought some of his French gourmet dishes.

The spring banquet on schedule will provide the final highlight of the year.

I am! No, I am! After many, many arguments over who was the Club Chess Champion, Roger Jefferson and Woody Harris finally decided to fight it out to the finish to determine once and for all who was really better. Nothing was accomplished however, because the game ended in a draw! The fact of who is better is really irrelevant because the main thing about the Chess Club is that all members are playing and enjoying themselves, even the rookies in the club, like club sponsor Mr. Kientz, manage to win a game once in a while. There have been many opportunities to play chess this year, with many rated tournaments being held in the area, several in the city of Emporia itself. And in the Spring there is the club championship. But for now, everyone in the club is saying "I'm the best."

Business Careers

Can you imagine being given the option of taking a test? Well that's the situation when a student joins FBLA. The FBLA (Future Business Leaders of America) is a state and national organization. The primary purpose of the chapter is to prepare students for business careers.

This year marks the reinactivation of the chapter after several years. Monthly meetings are held with an occasional call meeting for testing.

The chapter participates in district and state competition through activities such as spelling tests, arithmetic tests, and public speaking. The chapter achieves its goals in classroom participation in chapter sponsored activities.

The GAA, Girl's Athletic Association is the only strictly girl's club at GCHS. Many people think that the club is strictly for athleticaly inclined girls. It's not! Any one who is interested in learning about sports, either by being a spectator or a participant, can join. The girls attend Play Day at Virginia State College and Old Dominion. They participate in intramural sports and this year the girls have district level softball instead of the GAA sponsored softball. The club is very active.

The procedes from fund-raising activities are used to help finance trips to the Scope, Richmond and Hampton Roads Coliseums. Over all it is a fun club, one in which a girl can learn and become a more well-rounded person while having a "ball".

Develops Skills Through Play and Projects

Sitting in one class for two hours can become a "little" monotomous. Physical Education classes give students a chance to exercise their muscles and also to let off steam. Most students prefer physical activity to writing anytime. By having two hours of recreation, the other four do not seem so long. "Learning while playing" is the objective at G.C.H.S.. Participating in basketball, volleyball, track and field, shuffleboard, and many more activities is fun, but at the same time the student learns the basics of the game along with sportsmanship, team-work, and muscle co-ordination.

Driver's Education is another large part of P.E. class. The necessary knowledge to obtain a learner's permit is taught so that all students have a chance to "style around town."

The football season at G.C.H.S. got under way early in the month of August. Coach Sterling Smith and his Assistant, Richard Pearson, began to help the players get in shape for what looked like a championship season. Returning from last year's team were ten starters. The season got off to a fast start, with the Eagles winning two games back to back. At that point in the season the team's chances for a championship seemed very high, but the team was in for a disappointment as they lost their first game to the Matoaca Warriors. Although "scalped", the Eagles made a remarkable come back as they closed the gap from a 35-0 at halftime to a 32-35 game! The Eagles rolled on to win four consecutive games, and seemed invincible. After a homecoming victory against the Randolph-Henry Statesmen, the Eagles were tied for first place with a record of 3-0 in the district and a overall record of 6-1. With just three games to go, the next two games seemed to be the hardest as they were offset by many penalties. And were defeated by Nottoway 28-6. The Eagles showed good team work against Park View, as they tied the 1973 district champions with a score of 16-16 at halftime. In the second half the game went on to be recorded in the book as a loss for the Eagles 40-16. In the last game of the season, the "Green Machine" was going up against the chargers of Central. Coaches Smith and Pearson, wanted this to be the best game since the seniors on the team were graduating. In their final fling the Eagles rolled over the Chargers, with a 52-6 win in an overall successful season.

World Develops Practical Skills

CAFETERIA STAFF—Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Andrews, Mrs. Tillar, and Mrs. Lankford serve the food.

Is Mr. Pinchbeck engaging in "input" or is it a "put-on"?

What could be more practical than nourishing and clothing one's body—or providing those services for a family or a "world" of students as do cafeteria workers in schools, or dieticians in hospitals and institutions? Proper nourishment is essential to good health and "you are what you eat," claim some authorities. Mrs. Slate educates her students in the purchase of food and preparation of balanced meals. Our cafeteria ladies also try to provide the state approved type A lunch menu. It all takes planning and in these days of inflation, wise consumerism. In comparing the rising cost of convenience foods and ready made clothing, students can only conclude that it saves to do it yourself. Learning to select suitable fabrics, laying patterns, cutting out and applying the basic rudiments for clothing construction can result in stylish garments. Knitting, crocheting, quilting are also encouraged as projects. Four consecutive years of homemaking and a one year course for seniors is offered. The areas of instruction are Consumption of Goods and Services, in the Family, Management in the Family, Individual Development in the Family and Cultural Development in the Family. Major concern is the growth of the individual and ways home economics can help the students to improve the quality of life and live more successfully at home in the community today and in the world of tomorrow.

In keeping with the trend away from separate subject-matter classes, which emphasized the development of one specific skill, the Business Department has made a transition to job-orientated blocks, giving some training in the many "worlds" in which future office workers will be expected to perform. Those who want to do general office work such as typing and filing can begin in the 10th grade in the Office Services course. The Clerk-Typist course may be taken after completion in General Business and Typing I whereas Stenography I and II Clusters should be taken in the 11th grade by those who expect to develop a high proficiency in shorthand and all other office procedures. This organization is designed to track the various levels of interest and abilities into the cluster of classes which would best meet their needs.

Through the years the task of putting the annual together has been a voluntary, extra-curricular activity. The editor and business manager were selected from faculty recommendations and work was done during the study halls under the six period system. With the elimination of study halls under the "Block", the work had to be done after school. This year an elective course under the title of Journalism was offered to anyone who wanted to work on the annual. Over thirty students signed up. This was a boom to the sale of ads, but a bane to the production end. Those who "put it all together" were the "faithful few" who worked after school and on holidays.

Vo-Tech Students Build Outdoor Environmental Laboratory

The Natural Resources Management class combined efforts with the building and trades and agriculture students to develop a study trail for ecological education. Students built and erected a forty-foot tower which houses an anemometer that measures wind velocity. Another shelter is equipped with a barometer, hyrometer and an air temperature thermometer. At another point, cloud formations can be matched and identified from drawings depicted on a panel board. Trees typical of this area, their identification, rate of growth, harmful effects of beetles and blight can be studied at various sites. Soil types, erosion, water samples, aquatic life, flux and flow of the water in the lake and streams can be observed or studied in depth. Other accomplishments have been the wiring and partitioning and painting of more classrooms in the student built Vocational Technical Center. Students learn how to perform valuable services which will be in demand in the job world.

VICA Club

"A wonderful experience" is how one student describes V.I.C.A. (Vocational Industrial Clubs of America). Students in I.C.T. (Industrial Cooperative Training) are all members of the VICA Club. Also eligible to join are graphic arts, nursing, power mechanics, and Vo-Tech students. VICA helps each member to realize that "any job worth doing at all is worth doing well." Over 35 different job related contests are included in the VICA program. Fund raising enterprises conducted by VICA were the sale of seat cushions and candles. The main event of the club is the Employer-Employee Banquet at the end of the year. Whether they have a picnic, a party or a ball game, you can be sure it was the students' idea, decided on through parliamentary procedure and supervised by the sponsors. Sound like fun? It is!

Classroom, on the job training, and helping the sick, all at the same time? Yes, this is what the Health Clusters and L.P.N. classes at Greensville Memorial Hospital involve. The H.C. students work in such places as the hospital, nursing home, doctor and dental offices. Their duties involve taking temperatures, carrying ice to the patients, making beds, working in the laboratory, and merely being there to offer a helping hand when someone is in need.

The L.P.N. students have some of the same duties that the H.C. students do, however, their jobs are more extensive. They give baths, take blood pressures, and they are provided with the knowledge of administering medicine and running medical machinery. Every day the L.P.N.'s are being allowed to take on many of the responsibilities of the R.N.'s. The goal of these students is to serve the people of their community.

The Academic World Revolves Around the Library, Room 205,

"Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some few to be chewed and digested."
(Francis Bacon)

Our library contains a feast of books. In addition to a total of 8,483 books of fiction, non-fiction, philosophy, religion, reference, and literature, the library subscribes to 55 magazines and receives copies of 6 newspapers. The library can serve as a meal for everyone.

Mrs. Reid, our Secondary Supervisor whose office is Room 205, keeps a library of visual aid materials for use in Humanities, and history classes. It is also the storage and distribution point for the betti-kit booklets and tapes which are a part of the new performance training program.

And Guidance. Test Scores and Grade Standards Become a Major Concern.

The Block System, in its fourth year of implementation in the Greensville County Junior and Senior High Schools was one of the programs observed by visiting educators during The Conference on Learning, held January 16th and 17th. The blocking of classes into 2 hour sessions is especially advantageous in laboratory and vocational courses. Students overwhelmingly approve of the opportunity to accelerate and graduate a half-year early. Approximately 50 seniors leave after first semester to face the "outside" world while about an equal number of rising sophomores arrive from the Junior High School. Underclassmen who expect to be seniors the following September, take PSAT, the practice test for College Boards in October. Last year, because of the test score controversy, Greensville County administered SRA tests in the fall and spring to evaluate pupil progress in addition to the state required STEP and SCAT. This year the state required the SRA tests which were given in September along with the STEA (Short Test of Educational Ability) and the county will continue to test in the spring to ascertain the effectiveness of the performance training program used in all English classes throughout the school system. ASVAB, the Armed Services Aptitude Battery were for nursing and LPN candidates. Are you undecided about your future career? You can consult Viola the palmist or the astrology charts but an individual conference with guidance counselors Mrs. Vassar and Mr. Walton who copulated pupil preference with aptitude, ability, career potential as interpreted from the "Worlds of Testing" has given students the tool needed for building their own future world.

English Classes Become Target Performance Training Techniques,

For Tapes, Testing

The State Department's release of test scores last year brought about controversy and changes when it was revealed that Greensville County students were not achieving commensurate with their ability. In an effort to bring the pupils up to grade standards and to improve the quality of education, a performance training program was purchased to be implemented in every English class in the county. Taped Betti-Kit instructions and workbooks became a part of the curriculum in addition to the usual grammar and literature books. The "program" took precedence as the first order of the day's work. Classrooms were cleared of clutter and bulletin boards became "blanks" so not to distract student attention from their lessons. One result, achieved through the repetition of timed testing techniques, may be the increase of student efficiency and confidence in circling correct answers, underlining and answering objective-type tests. Meanwhile, there is much to be taught that cannot be tested. The current emphasis on the "accountability" of the teacher for the performance of the students on standardized tests does not solve the problem of individual differences or degrees of motivation — but evaluation feedback can be the basis for building better programs. Mastery of basic skills is essential before the many "worlds" of literature can be explored. Increased perception through role playing, character analysis, book reports, research papers, interpretation of poetry and the various styles of writing, improved written and oral communication continue as the ultimate goals for English students.

1. A former G.C.H.S. graduate, Connie Drake, now Mrs. Wilson, returns to do her student teaching in English.

Speech Class Finds Togetherness

Marching on a field, singing "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer," screaming in Mr. Pinchbeck's office, reciting word teasers, dancing a Can-Can in the cafeteria, teaching an ICT class, performing musical scales; all of these were activities of the speech class; a class devoted to creativity and devoted to the revival of forensics, dramatics and overall school spirit.

The class under the direction of Miss Naomi Pomeroy, was most innovative and original. Students created their own characters, wrote their own lines, and performed their own plays and monologues to the delight of critics, faculty and fellow classmates. They also directed and produced innovative radio scripts and radio advertisements. The surface of psychology was skimmed as students studied persuasion and motivational techniques. Rhythm and coordination were enhanced through the study of dance, both modern and conventional. Informal debates sparkled from controversial speeches and students learned what it was to argue logically rather than emotionally. They also taught the basics of speech to fellow classmates in ICT and gave Christmas concerts to various classes during the Holiday Season.

It was a time when students examined activities that had not been done and questioned, "why not do them?" Consequently, a program of skits were performed for two audiences, a forensics tournament was held with students competing at the district level, and a field trip to a dinner theatre was taken.

When a group works together, they grow together. So it was with this class. "Togetherness" was the secret of the class's success; regardless of their endeavor, they possessed unity which quickly pushed aside conventional obstacles.

Le Francais and L'español Explore Old World Cultures

"Bonjours, Monsieur, Comment-allez vous?"
"Como est as?"

These questions are frequently heard when one passes Room 111, the Foreign Language Lab. while French or Spanish classes are in session.

Several changes have taken place in the department this year. The number of students decreased, necessitating the elimination of Russian, which had made a valiant one-year stand. Mr. Hill's travels to Russia and to France continue to inspire similar aspiration in his French students, who find his classes not all drill and drudgery, though a study of language under the Block System does require an acceleration of the process of absorption.

Mr. Ardura, a former Cuban, joined the department to teach Spanish, his native tongue. History and the cultural contributions of Spanish speaking people is explored in addition to grammer and communication skills which cover "Worlds" of dialogue before the closure of an "Au Revoir" or a "Hasta Luego!"

9. Have you ever seen a real Christmas tree on a door? Isn't it great?

Living in an age of technology, teenagers often question the relevancy of having to learn facts from the remote past. To those who consider it a bore, history is merely the chore of memorizing data to be fed back on tests. To those who recognize the importance of a sense of the past, of identifying with one's heritage, history is the interpreter of man's destiny, the bridge to the future. World History, American and English History, the latter an elective in the British Humanities course, study the past that the present may be more fully understood. Both the American and British Humanities courses have become history orientated with the abandonment of the team teaching experiment which had provided an arts correlation. Government classes continue to analyze and compare world governments with our own democratic system and to encourage responsible action. Sociology, a popular elective course, gives opportunity to students to discuss society's problems, some of which are vitally personal and important. As religionists declare "God is dead" and historians lament the death of the past, modern man may turn to Social Sciences for dialogue and answers. Facts can be a foundation but they are stones from dead worlds if factual regurgitation becomes the end rather than the means to greater insights and concerns.

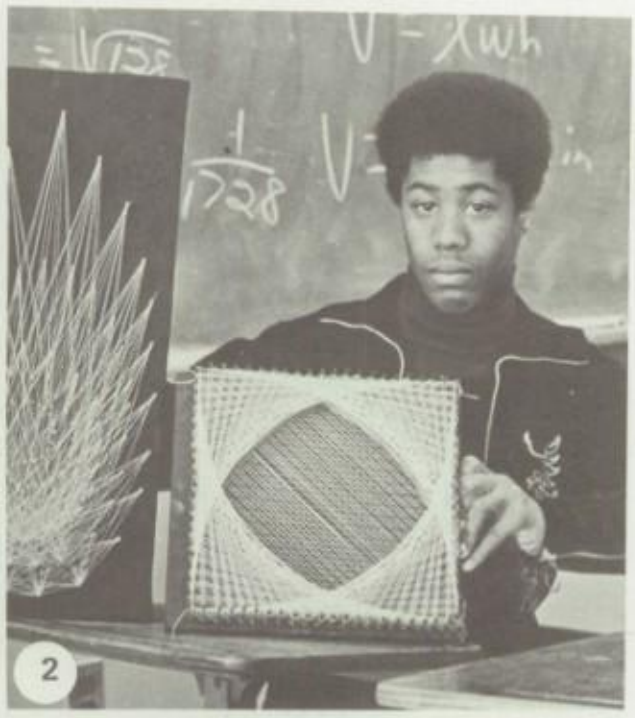
6. Biological specimen is captured by annual photographer, Vince Lankford.



The effect of a State Department reduction in the number of units required in math and science for graduation has been responsible for fewer classes with more students this year and a team teaching experiment in chemistry with Mrs. Clonts teaching the math and Mrs. Beaman conducting the labs. Advanced chemistry is offered for the college bound and a Practical Chemistry is prerequisite for the L.P.N. program. A few brave "brains" even attempt Physics! A new advanced math curriculum which offers an equivalency of first year college mathematics plus the courses in Consumer Math are all designed to help the students to function efficiently in their own particular world.

Installment buying, insurance, budgeting, making out income tax are common denominators for all denizens in a democracy. Pollution, Population Dynamics and Environmental Studies are also common concerns. Courses in Math and Science challenge students at all levels to be cognizant of responsibilities in a changing, complex world.

The Political World Permeates Endeavor— at International

"To find an honest man as this world goes is to be one picked out of ten thousand."

William Shakespeare

Above: Mr. Pugh, Mr. Brown, Mr. Owen, Mr. Billy G. Johnson, State Department Supervisor of Driver Education, Mr. Pinchbeck, Mr. Phillips, Mr. Vincent and Mr. Russell have smiles of satisfaction after the Spring Sports Banquet.

THE YEAR 1974 IN RETROSPECT

By Eddie Leinwand

When 1973 ended, people wondered what the future would hold, for surely things could get no worse. With Watergate as the major hinge, the door finally shut on Richard Nixon and for the first time this nation had a president not elected by the people, Gerald Ford. The rise of unemployment and inflation worked a hardship on many as prices went up and stocks went down. 1974 was also the year when kidnapping made a comeback with chameleon, Patty Hearst; Henry Kissinger did more than kiss and tell, Wilbur Mills had his Tidal Basin affair; Bob Dylan broke his eighth year silence with a record breaking U.S. concert tours and Edward Kennedy bowed out of presidential considerations.

In the sporting world, Evel Knievel took the people for several million with his canyon caper, Hank Aaron, the limelight for breaking the Babe's record and Muhammed Ali, the crown from Foreman. In the spring a new spectator sport hit college campuses as streaking spread — even to the halls of G.C.H.S. Did anyone ever uncover the bare "facts" beneath that turbaned towel?

The gasoline shortage turned out to be contrived but controlled as the Arabs still held the world over the barrel in the continuing fuel crisis. Charles Lindberg made his final flight out into the wide, blue yonder as did Duke Ellington, Earl Warren, and Bob Hope. It was a (expletive deleted) year! Can one find comfort in the observation that things always get worse before getting better?

GREENSVILLE COUNTY CONDUCTS CONFERENCE

The Honorable Andrew P. Miller, (right) Attorney General of Commonwealth of Virginia, was one of the guest speakers at the January 16th and 17th Conference on Learning, which featured the "block system", the Vocational Technical Center built by students, the Learning Center, the new Kindergarten program and the performance training program which required a year round in-service training classes of all the teachers in the county to implement it in the schools. Visitors from neighboring systems and the state department listened, observed and in addition enjoyed a fancy breakfast, lunch, and a very special banquet provided by the host school, Emporia Elementary. Dr. William Cockran, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction for the state, commented that a method that works in one locality is not necessarily the panacea for all educational problems, while Attorney General Miller strongly supported local school board policy failing those who do not achieve grade level, and applauded Greensville County's blow against the tradition of social promotion which resulted in the mass retention of students this past year. In an effort to bring weak students up to grade standards, an enrichment program on the Junior High level and special classes at the Senior High have been added. For those students who can not meet academic standards, plans are being made for certificates of achievement in vocational areas. On January 27th the contribution of the Vo-Tech students in the building of the Outdoor Environmental Laboratory was the object of the tour and meetings. Greensville County is on the "go!"

IN MEMORIAM

Miss Trixie Hattie Johnson
May 12, 1903
Nov. 20, 1974

The Old Emporia High School, now the Emporia Elementary School was the building where Mrs. Jones and Miss Johnson began their teaching in the Greensville County System. Mrs. Jones taught from 1927-1931 and was head of the English Department. She was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of the College of William and Mary whose academic excellence and general accumulation of knowledge were tinged with a delightful and very special sense of humor. She and Miss Johnson, teacher, civic leader, musician and Virginia's Teacher of the Year 1969 were outstanding educators. Miss Johnson taught in the public schools of Virginia, for over forty years, for over a quarter of a century served as sponsor of the Senior Class, the school annual, and various clubs, and directed as chairman, the Social Studies Department of Greensville County High School; for over a decade, worked with a statewide committee to develop and direct the Virginia Model General Assembly for the high school students of this state; and over those many years, was always a friend and ardent supporter of public education in this Commonwealth.

The Business World Subsidizes Eagle '75

1. Rosalind Carrington sells candles made by the Annual Staff to benefit the annual.
2. Supersalesmen — R. Pulley, T. Bartholomew, J. Whitehead, R. Grizzard, E. Leinwand and D. Daughtrey drove to neighboring towns to solicit ads.
3. Business Manager, R. Grizzard, J. Jones, D. Carpenter, and Y. Jones check over ad sales.
4. That's not Beth begging — but after completion of the annual, her comment was — "Oh, my aching back."

We appreciate the contribution of Max Ward of Delmar Studios, Mrs. Doris Duncan, photographer for the Roanoke Rapids' newspaper, Mr. William Kidd of the Pictorial and student photographers, Derek Curley, George Garrett, David Stith and our Annual photographer, Vince Lankford.

Our World at Greensville High has been untimely in motion.
We have made the worlds at this school
Our main points of devotion.

In the Academic World
The Seniors have done their best
Now it's up to the underclassmen
To carry on and do the rest.

In the World of Sports we always tried for the top
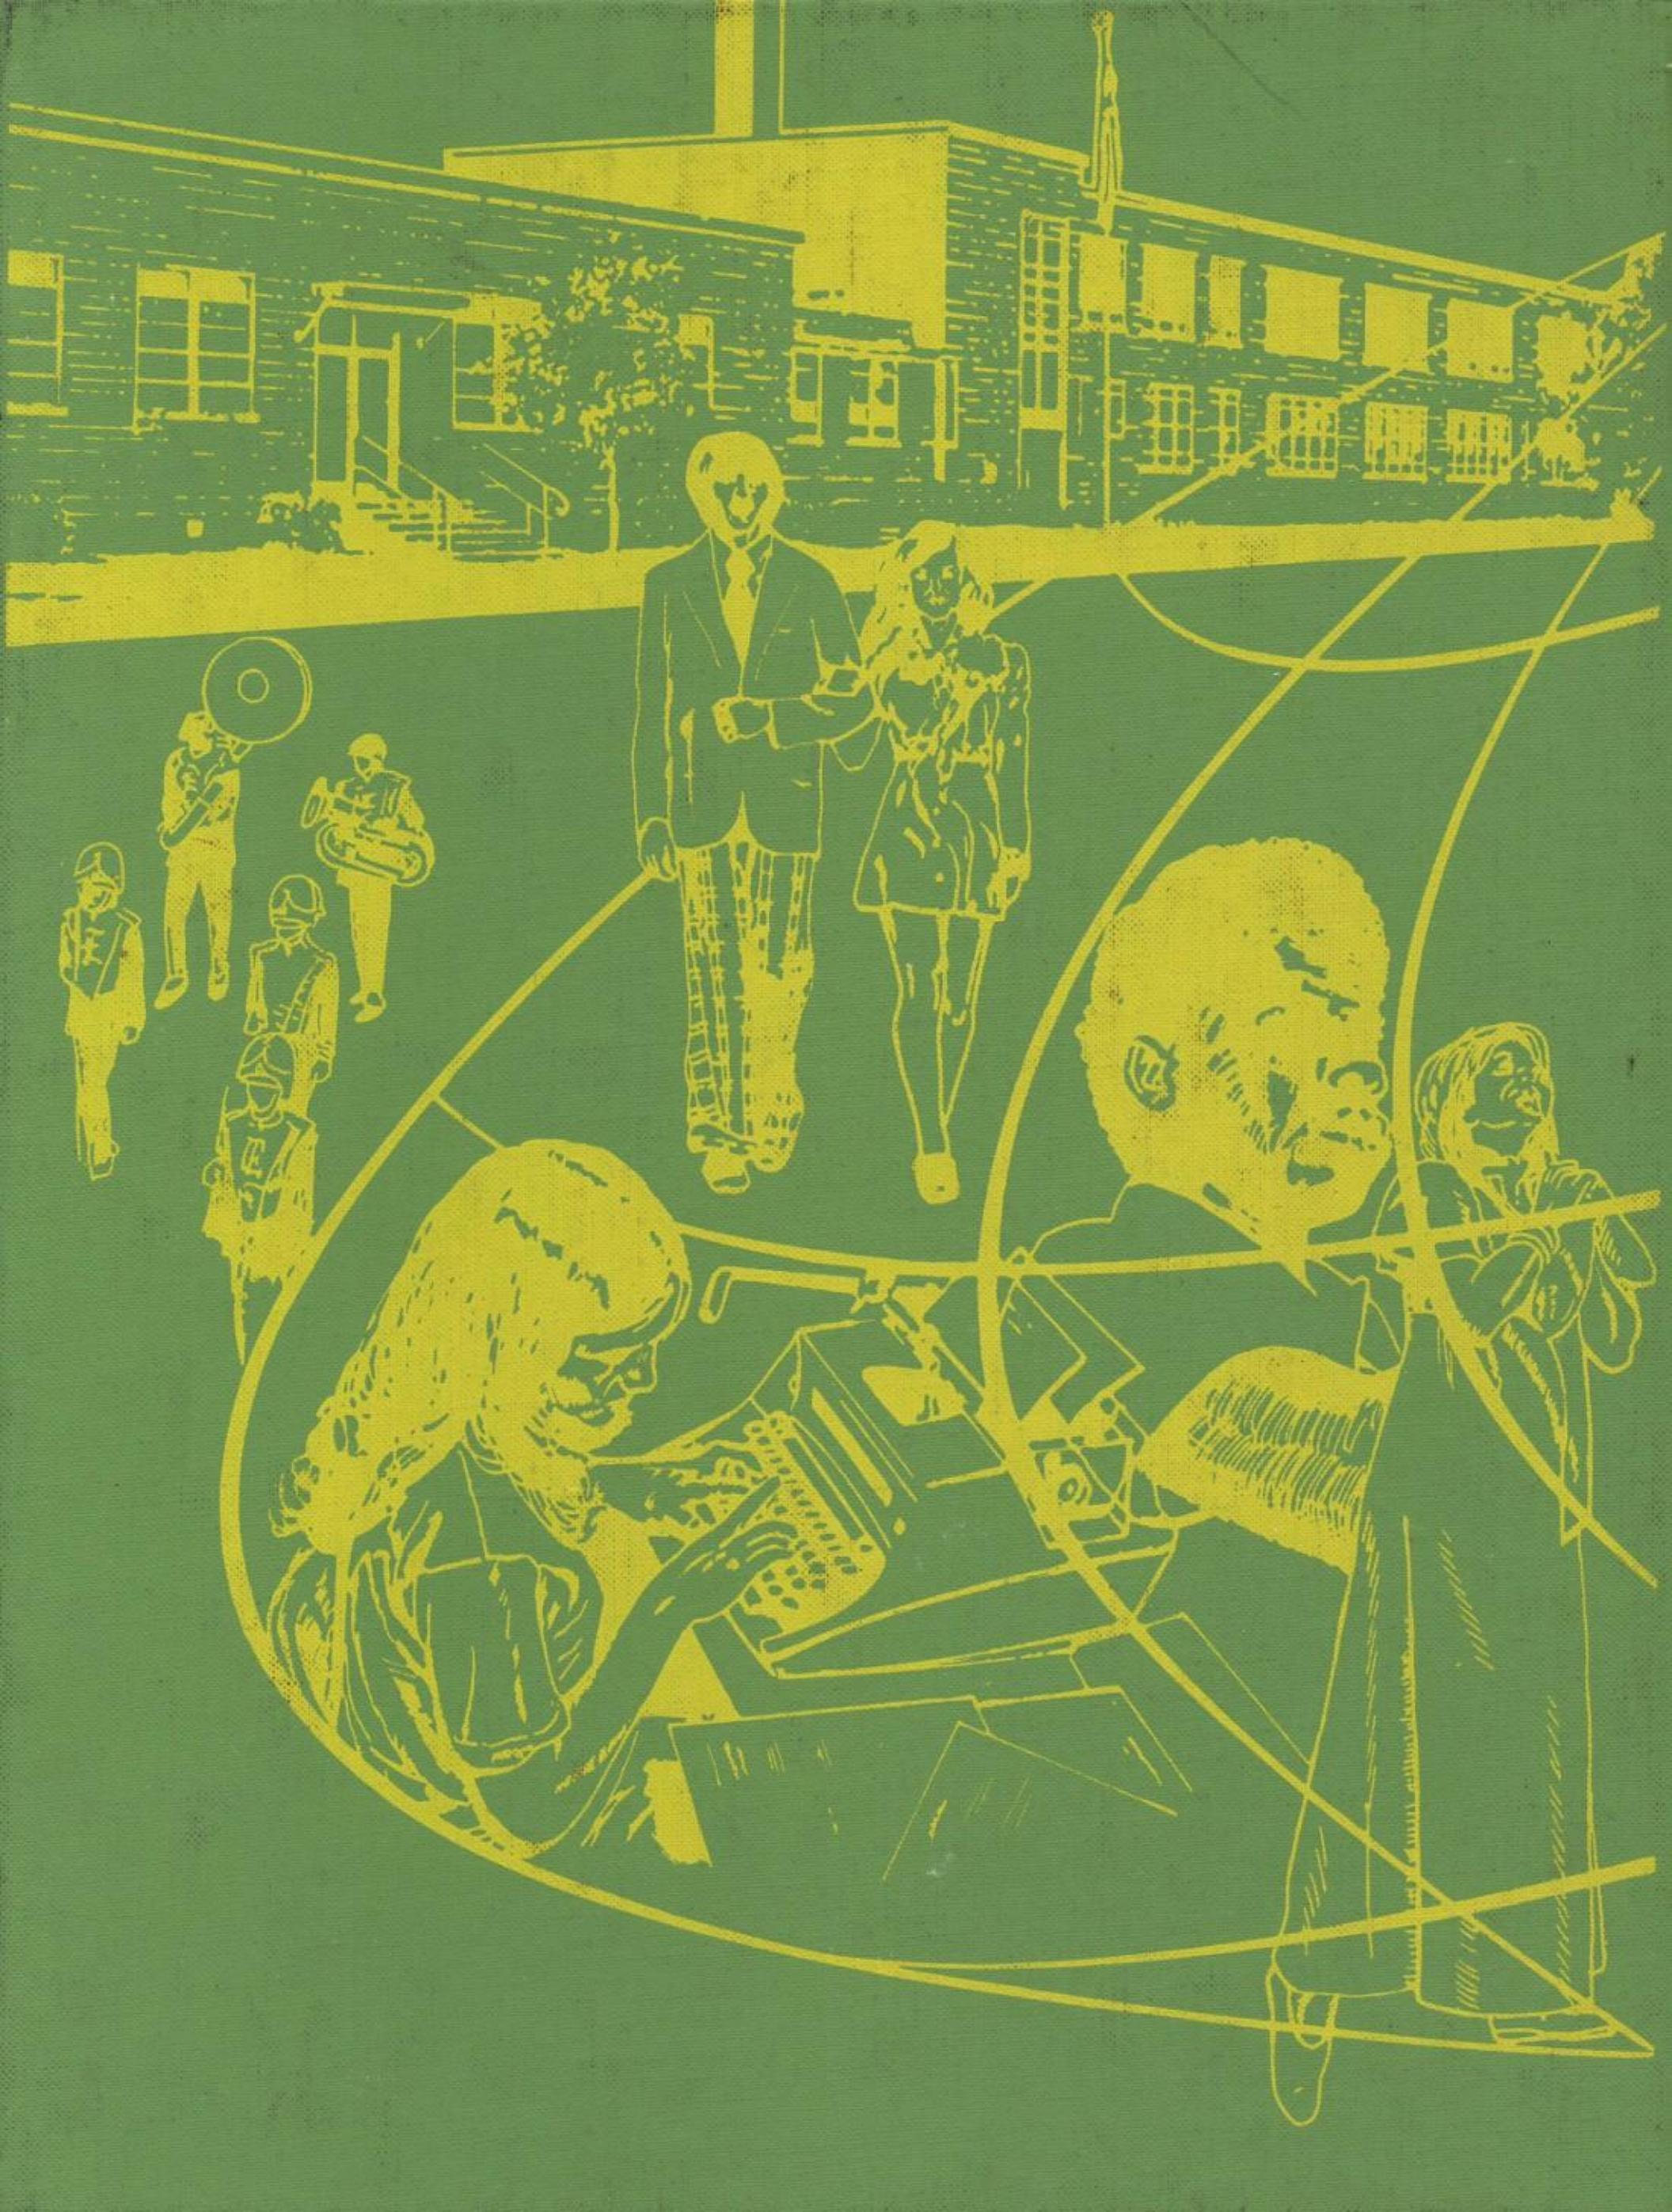
There were times when we almost failed;
But we never found reason to stop.

In the World of Creativity, we've done everything
From writing a skit to making a candle.
The creative talent at Greensville High
Is something to match and channel.

To better the world in the future
We have studied politics
Some of it never appealed to us
But some parts of it will stick.

We were able to perform many activities
In clubs whose organization
Has helped us to acquire unity
And strengthen participation

The 1974-75 school session
Has come to an end
Let us not forget the fun and laughter,
As well as the hard times the past has been

We seniors say farewell
For into the world we'll be gone
But we shall never forget
That Greensville High
Has been our stepping stone


Carolyn Greene
